

Dear Colleagues,

We prepared this issue under the pressure of the latest threat to global health, Coronavirus Disease 2019. We hope, everything will be the same as before and we will be able to do studies, write papers and get together art scientific meetings.

It is a great honour to be able to express our thanks to you for your ongoing enthusiastic support as writers, reviewers, and readers, that has allowed us to continually strengthen our journal's scientific content and keep raising the bar on medical publishing.

The journal will continue to be available through Dergipark, where Tubitak Ulakbim offers online hosting to a wide range of scientific journals. As many of you are aware, our journal is already included in the E-SCI (Emerging Sources Citation Index). Our current aim is to be upgraded by Thomson Reuters to the Science Citation Index - Expanded (SCI-E) by the end of this year.

You are warmly invited to submit suitable papers on ENT or related subjects, to "ENT Updates". The journal promises a swift yet meticulous review process and final decision. If you have any questions about the journal or would like to volunteer as a reviewer, please feel free to contact me at any time.

As editors of the ENT Updates journal, we would like to take an opportunity to express our heartfelt thanks to all the journal's dedicated and expert reviewer colleagues, without whose diligent and time-consuming efforts, this journal would not be able to achieve its current very high standards. Over the course of the last year, ENT Updates has published 35 papers with a median time to first decision of 18 days and a median time from submission to publication of 90 days. (These totals do not include those papers which, following careful review, were not deemed suitable for publication.)

In particular, we would like to mention the following reviewers by name:
